The Comparative Youth Penality Project

Project Newsletter May 2013

The Comparative Youth Penality Project (CYPP) is a new ARC Discovery Project led by Professor Chris Cunneen, Professor Eileen Baldry, Emeritus Professor David Brown, Melanie Schwartz and Professor Barry Goldson (University of Liverpool).

The CYPP is a comparative study of youth punishment between Australia (focusing on NSW, Victoria, Queensland and WA) and internationally with England and Wales. The project aims to analyse developments in the punishment of children and young people over the last 30 years. This is the first in-depth analysis of Australian youth penality and the first comparative study of youth punishment between these jurisdictions.

The Project seeks to answer the following questions:

● What are the defining features of contemporary juvenile justice penality?
● How has youth penality changed since the early 1980s across the comparative jurisdictions?
● How have changing approaches to youth penality impacted upon particular social groups including racial minorities, Indigenous youth, young women and young people with mental and cognitive disabilities?
● What, if any, jurisdictional differences are to be found in discourses on community safety, the nature of childhood and youth (including child welfare and protection), the appropriateness of rehabilitation and the character of punishment practices for youth?
● How has the development of a human rights framework impacted on penal law, policy and practice as applied to youth? What impact, if any, has a children’s rights framework had on differentiating youth justice from adult penal systems?

This newsletter aims to update stakeholders and other interested parties on the progress of the project; and relevant news and research in the field. For more information please visit our website or feel free to contact Alisa Wicks.

The Howard League Symposium - What is justice? Re-imagining Penal Policy
In early 2013, the Howard League for Penal Reform launched a new and ambitious symposium. Through What is justice? Re-imagining penal policy it is seeking to develop innovative, credible and challenging ideas and to generate an intellectual debate that can act as a springboard to contest the conventional role of the penal system and, ultimately, promote a new, achievable paradigm. The Symposium’s first seminar took place in London on May 16, 2013.

An international conference is scheduled for October 2013 at Keble College, Oxford University: http://www.howardleague.org/what-is-justice-events/
